EXCLUSIVE!

Lucy's last TOWIE shoot!

It's like a picture-based CV!

➔ SO THE tragic news is that TOWIE fixture, founder member and reality TV stalwart since 2010 (amaze-o-fact: there have been ten series in three years!), Lucy Mecklenburgh has left the show. If we all pull together, chaps, we'll get through this.

In homage to Lucy's excellent work, we've rustled up this totally exclusive all-new set of awesome Mecklenburgh snaps, which work both as something nice to look at and a photo-based Lucy ad for any interested TV producers. Plus, over the page, the wisdom of Lucy! ▶

BYE BYE LUCY!

Lucy's time on TOWIE has involved four fellas, copious cat fights and an opening of a boutique! ▶

“Kim Kardashian’s bum is on another level!”

“Cheeky, confident and cocky guys always pursue me!”

Lucy on... Men

"I'm definitely not attracted to a womaniser. Oh God, I hope not anyway. The problem is, cheeky, confident and cocky guys with the gift of the gab always pursue me."

Her body...

"I don't think I'm too thin. My personal trainer wouldn't let me get too thin, and neither would my family."

Keeping fit...

"I've always been quite happy with my body but more so now, because anything I didn't like, I've trained hard to change. I don't just sit on my bum, eat what I want and expect my body to be nice. I work hard. Everyone has body insecurities when they're younger."

Spending time in the gym...

"There's nothing like getting down and dirty in the gym. It makes you ready for anything."

Love...

"I'd like a boyfriend and to fall in love in 2014. I'm just a needy person. I like a cuddle and attention, so it's hard."

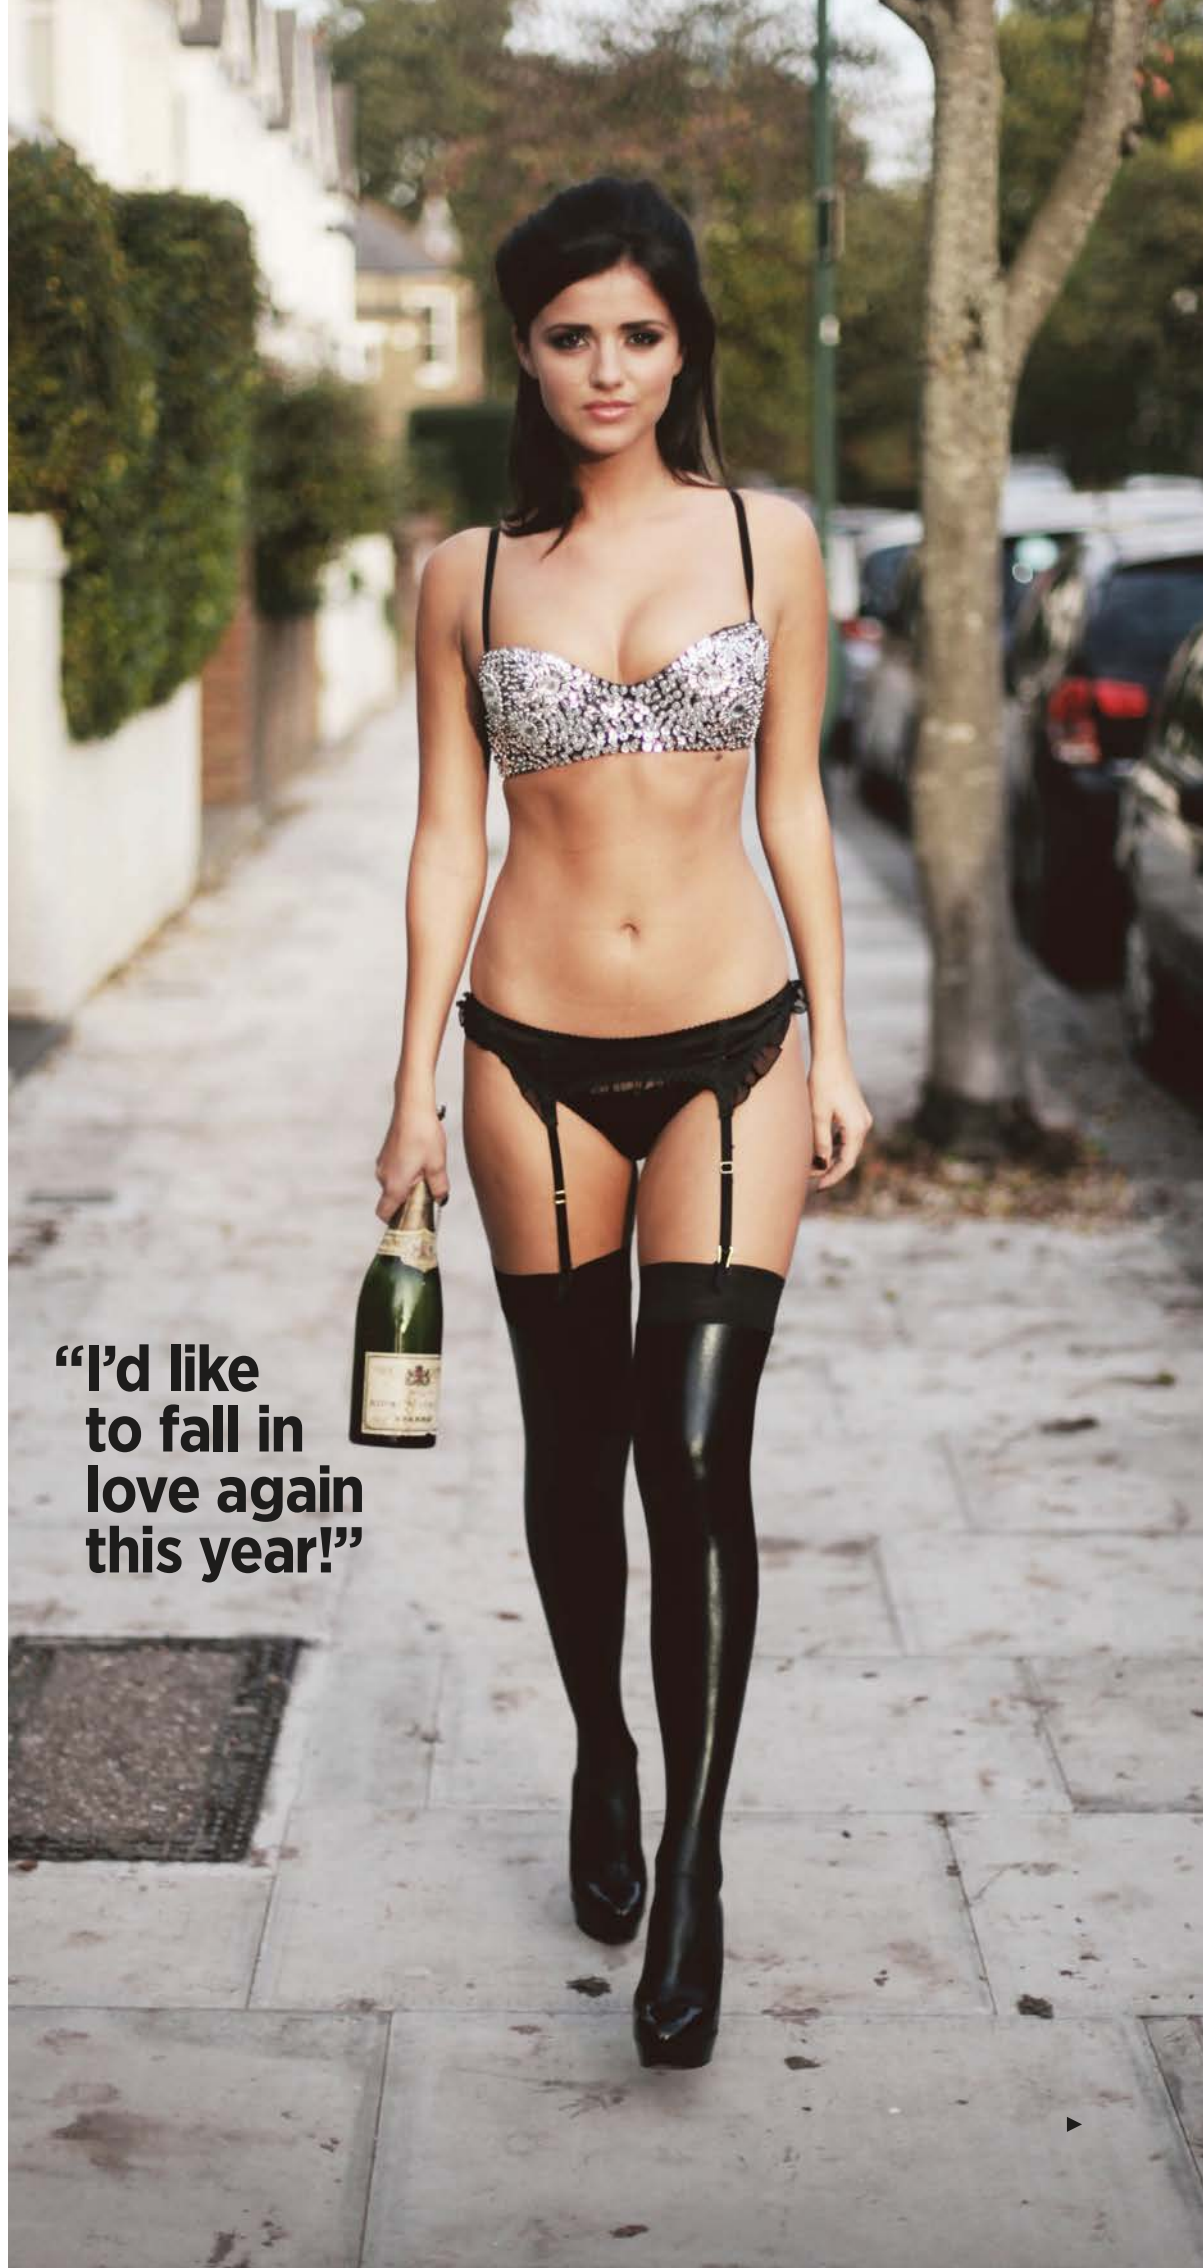

TOWIE...

"I'm so proud to have been part of such a successful show for ten series."

Her Kim Kardashian bum selfie...

"Kim Kardashian's bum is on another level. She posted her belfie to the haters who said she was fat. Mine was more about fitness and to show that if you're unhappy with something, you can change it."

"I'd like to fall in love again
this year!"

“I’m a needy person. I like a cuddle!”

“I’ve always been quite happy with my body!”

“I’m proud to have been part of TOWIE!”

what I want!”

EXCLUSIVE!

Top Gear is back!

Nuts bags exclusive highlights of season 21!

SO SOMEHOW, in spite of the best efforts of politicians, the PC brigade, militant feminists, tree-huggers, people with fingers and a Twitter account and Mexico, this Sunday sees the premiere of series 21 of the British thing of wonder that is Top Gear. We got the exclusive lowdown on some of the boys' best stunts.

THE BOYS ARE BACK!

The boys return for the new series of Top Gear on Sunday 2 February, BBC Two/HD, 8pm.

HOT HATCH SPECIAL!

The nostalgic bunch try to prove that the hot hatches of their "youth" are superior to today's speedy runabouts. So they buy one each to test them. Somehow a "police" tank is involved. Blowing a car up.

HAVING A BLAST!

Another Stig was humanely destroyed

THE CHRISTMAS SPECIAL - BURMA!

Nothing's more traditional than Top Gear's Christmas special being aired in February. So, this year, the chaps scored some air miles by heading to Burma, where they bought a lorry each for their usual epic road trip.

Land Rover had really let standards slip

UKRAINE!

In a surprising, small-car special, flights were booked to Ukraine, where three sub-1-litre engined cars were driven in a road test described as "unimaginable bleakness, boredom and ultimately, fear." Sounds ace!

It was jut another August afternoon in Salford

"Give it a bit of a Hoover, eh, love?"

BESPOKE SUPERCARS!

Jeremy investigates the world of the bespoke supercar, getting his mitts on the 188mph Alfa Romeo Disco Volante Touring. It's a £1m supercar made from the very rare Alfa 8c and possibly the world's prettiest car.

"It's amazing what you can pick up at Toys R Us these days"

ALFA 4C VS A QUADSKI!

Hammond gets his Alfa Romeo cherry burst, getting to grips with the new 160mph two-seater. Of course, nothing's straightforward on Top Gear, as Clarkson gets involved on a road and water-traversing quadski.

What else we think is coming!

MCLAREN'S P1 REVIEWED!

Road tested: the new fastest car in the world, at Belgium's Circuit de Spa-Francorchamps.

MONACO VISITED!

Clarkson and Hammond cruise the mean streets of Monaco in a Bugatti Veyron and Lamborghini Aventador.

SILLY MOUSTACHES WORN!

The Hamster and May don some face fuzz for a strange police car snap.

MICRO CAR CONVENTION

James May hits up the National MicroCar Rally 2013. Presumably because Clarkson's too "spready"!

MERCEDES 6 BY 6!

A genuine country bumpkin, and fan of cars that you can go ploughing in, The Hamster nips off to Abu Dhabi and roars around in a six-wheel Mercedes silly wagon. Then tests it in a water park full of chubby ex-pats.

Nuts did a party!

➔ MOST BIRTHDAY bashes thrown for ten-year-olds feature jelly, bouncy castles, maybe a terrifying clown to give kids nightmares. To be honest, we considered that option (no clowns) to celebrate Nuts' 10th birthday last week, but instead opted for the hot girls/swanky London venue/booze option. It turned out OK. Here's the evidence in the form of pictures. PS, it was very quiet in the office the morning after.

Lightning pummels Rio’s Christ statue!

IN FAIRNESS, it’s a huge, wavy-armed thing stuck at the top of a big old mountain, but God really did hit Rio’s Christ The Redeemer statue with an apocalyptic lightning storm last week. It’s suffered chips in two fingers from strikes over the last couple of weeks, but one blast last Thursday knocked poor Jimmy C’s right thumb straight off. It’s like God’s got a message for the World Cup. And it’s not two thumbs up to Rio!

Frankly, the Second Coming was chuffing terrifying

A large, dramatic photograph of the Christ the Redeemer statue at night. The statue is brightly lit from below, making it stand out against the dark sky. Multiple bright, jagged lightning bolts are visible in the background, creating a powerful and somewhat ominous atmosphere. The statue's arms are outstretched, and its face is clearly visible.

Christ The Redeemer facts!

- The 100ft statue, made from 700 tonnes of reinforced concrete, is the largest depiction of Jesus in the world and stands more than 2,000 feet above Rio on top of the Corcovado Hill.
- On average, it is struck by lightning five times a year.
- The Archdiocese of Rio, which manages the statue, has a stock of the same stone originally used to build it, erected in 1931, for repairs.
- The statue underwent a £2.4million renovation in 2010 to repair badly eroded parts of its face and hands.

A smaller, inset version of the main image, showing the Christ the Redeemer statue at night with lightning in the background. The inset is framed by a thick red border. A red arrow points from the main image towards the inset.

England cricket, fixed!

Nuts mends our cricket failures in ten easy steps!

➔ YOU MAY have noticed that in the space of two short months, the England cricket team have gone from Ashes-retaining cocks of the walk, to whitewashed no-hopers. And while sports psychology is a complicated and difficult mistress, we've come up with ten simple ways to pull English cricket out of its current doldrums. With the simple addition of a Frankie Boyle here and a Dappy there, in no time we'll be world beaters again!

1 IRON MAN SUITS FOR FIELDERS!

No boundary uncaught as our fielders simply rocket up to tricky smashes.

2 USAIN BOLT FILLS IN AS A RUNNER!

With Bolt alongside his chum Justin Gatlin, we'd never be run out again!

3 ALL PASSPORTS SURRENDERED!

Upon landing, all players give up their passports, so no sneaking off mid-series.

4 DAPPY SCORES THE AUSSIES

Nice-but-dim Dappy can be in charge of keeping score for our opponents.

5 EMPLOY FRANKIE BOYLE AT SLIP!

Ten minutes of Boyle's sledging and Aussies will bash in their own stumps!

6 MOLES LOWER OUR STUMPS!

Trained moles dig under the wicket and pull our stumps down a few inches!

7 FREDDIE FLINTOFF WATERS OPPONENTS!

Andrew Flintoff is put in charge of water stations, fills 'em with strong booze!

8 MANDATORY JOHNSON 'TACHES!

Power-instilling Mitchell Johnson under-nose caterpillars for our boys.

9 ALEX FERGUSON HAIR DRYERS!

10 CRICKET BALL FIRING BAZOOKAS

Issue Stuart Broad and chums a ball-firing rocket launcher. Howzat!

Porsche's beautiful, retro styled Targa!

The classic '60s icon returns, and it's all Porsche underneath!

- A Targa is what you call a Porsche 911 which isn't a convertible and isn't a traditional tin top. This is the new one, and it doesn't get prettier.
- This new Targa maintains the classic humped 911 profile shape where the rag roof doesn't, with the added magic of a disappearing roof above the front seats.
- This new Targa for the "991" shaped 911 silences the haters by blatantly plucking inspiration from the '60s original, with an iconic pillarless window design and trademark retro (magnesium) roll hoop.
- When the 911 first came out in 1963, the Targa's back window was a naff plastic zip-out item. Come 1967, the goldfish bowl rear window had arrived, and this new version continues that unhindered rear visibility.

- And if sunburn's the desired skin condition, within 19 seconds, the soft-top middle section electronically disappears behind the rear parcel shelf. The system is a typically German feat of engineering, which sees the entire bubble rear window lift off the 911's hips and hang over the bum of the Porsche as it waits for the roof to be stowed.
- The entry-level Targa wears a 3.4-litre flat six under its louvred rump, providing 350bhp and the ability to get to a top speed of around 175mph. The S model packs a 3.8-litre engine with an extra 50bhp over the 3.4. Tick the S option box and you'll also be furnished with 20in rims, Adaptive Suspension Management and torque vectoring with a limited slip diff.

- Although the official performance figures are still being kept close to Porsche's chest, expect the Targas to be a smidge heavier and slower accelerating than the coupés, but faster and lighter than their cabriolet cousins. Targas are just £650 cheaper, with the 3.4-litre starting at £86,281.

SEVERED!

'Two-inch spikes shredded my hand!'

A day at the recycling plant turns into an afternoon at A&E!

➔ JUST TYPICAL, isn't it? You try to help Mother Earth continue to exist for a few extra weeks by helping out with the recycling process, and you end up with the mother of all hand injuries.

The owner of this messed-up mitt is Peter Toth, from Magherafelt in Northern Ireland. He takes up the story of how the mangling unfolded...

"I work as a baler operator at the local recycling plant. I was trying to fix the baler and thought the machine had slipped into idling mode – but, unfortunately, it hadn't. So, when I cut out a piece of wire that was jammed inside, it dropped the vertical spikes on the inside, one of which went right through my hand.

That wasn't the worst of it though – the spikes fall and rise on a ten-second cycle, so

I had to wait until they reached their bottom point before they came back up through my hand – bringing that twisted piece of wire with it. It ripped off a load of soft tissue and broke two of my metacarpals."

Four months later and Peter's finally on the mend. And, even though he lost a big lump of his hand, he can at least console himself that he did so making a better tomorrow for all of us.

“I want to be as big as Lucy Pinder!”

Hi Holly! How have you enjoyed today's shoot?

It's been amazing! The location's so beautiful – I can't believe how swanky it is! Everyone's so lovely – I always like working with Nuts. This is my second shoot for the magazine. The first one was on-set, but this one's in a house, so it's a whole different experience.

Who's your favourite Nuts girl?

Lucy Pinder's just amazing. She's stunning – and she's got incredible boobs! She's a real role model because she's lovely as well as sexy. I want to be as big as her. Well, not in that way! Although, I'd love to have her boobs...

What are you like on a night out?

A liability! Ha-ha! I tend to drink too much Jägermeister. Bad, I know... and I don't even remember half the night, so I usually end up getting carried home by my mates!

What would your ultimate fantasy shoot be like?

It'd be somewhere like Bora Bora. Just imagine me naked, on the beach, crystal blue sea... I'm at my happiest when I'm in the sun.

So you're more of a summer girl?

Yeah. Last summer, I went to Ibiza with my mates. It was 5am and we were drunk, so we decided to go for a skinny-dipping session. Unfortunately, our stuff got stolen, including my phone... And they also nicked my mate's shorts and bra, so she had to walk back to the hotel topless!

Amazing! Did anyone see?

Plenty of guys got an eyeful. That's the craziest thing I've done – last year, at least!

So, when you're not modelling for Nuts or getting starkers abroad, what do you get up to?

I work as an accounts assistant in an office, but it's not what I want to do for much longer. ►

"I'm a liability on a night out. I tend to drink too much Jägermeister"

HOLLY COLEMAN

“My perfect first date would be going to Nando’s!”

At the moment, I’m preferring getting my clothes off for Nuts to being stuck behind a desk. I don’t have much spare time with work and modelling. The only time I get it is after work when I do Bikram Yoga.

What on Earth is that?

It’s basically yoga but in a boiling hot room, so you get very sweaty. It’s so hot that I just wear skimpy shorts and a little gym top. The funny thing is, blokes do it, too.

We can’t imagine why!

Yeah, but they’re not going to try and chat you up when you’re a sweaty Betty!

What’s the weirdest chat-up line a bloke’s ever tried on you?

Oh, I’ve heard so many! The cheesiest was when some guy asked me to feel his jumper and said, “Hey, this is boyfriend material!” I’d much rather guys just came up to me normally and were upfront.

What would a chap have to do to impress you?

I don’t really expect that much from a first date. My perfect date would be going to Nando’s, then drinks after. I’m cheap and cheerful! I’d like to cook for a bloke – my speciality is fajitas. All my mates say I’m the best! So it’d be nachos to start, then chicken fajitas, and then for dessert a warm chocolate fudge pudding with vanilla ice cream.

What’s going to be the most awesome thing about 2014?

More Nuts photo shoots, of course! Hopefully, you guys will take me to Bora Bora for some sexy snaps – who knows?

What’s your best asset?

Physically? My boobs. As for my personality, I’d say that I’m a very loyal person.

Finally then, how would your mates describe you?

Knowing them, they’d say I’m really ditzy. I’m clumsy, but they all know I’m a nice girl at heart. They’d tell you I’m a bit of a party animal, too! ►

“My friends would tell you I’m a

The Return Of...

VIC & BOB!

Hello gentlemen! Your new show – House Of Fools is absolutely bonkers. How did you originally sell it?

Vic: It's a sitcom based in Bob's flat and is about his suffering of a variety of idiotic characters. I play Vic Reeves, one of the idiots.

Bob: House Of Fools is set in my place, where I live with Vic and my Norwegian son, Eric. All I want is a quiet life but this is impossible due to the antics of Vic's mate Beef [played by Matt Berry], his brother Bosh and his next-door neighbour, who all treat his flat like a second home.

Are you chuffed with how it's being received?

Vic: Yes. It's the best thing we've done. We made a pilot originally and we were told to make it look nicer, which we did. It's great stuff.

Bob: We were told to make it look fun rather than like Prisoner Cell Block H.

The show's set in a grubby flat. Where's the grubbier place you've ever lived?

Vic: Bob will answer that.

Bob: The first two years I was living in London, I lived in a homeless house in Peckham.

Vic: Ha-ha! Yeah, when I went to his flat, he'd knocked a hole in the wall so he could climb out of it and get into the toilet easier...

Bob: And in the '80s, I spent two years in a squat. Then I stood up! I did so.

You've been doing this surreal comedy malarkey for yonks, so what makes you laugh?

Bob: I've liked the American Office and Modern Family in recent years.

Vic: I like Family Tree.

Bob: Oh, and have you watched Orange Is The New Black, that prison comedy on Netflix?

Vic: No, but I have watched The Tunnel. Although that's not funny.

When you go to stuff like the Comedy Awards, are you tempted to make the younger comics run errands for you?

Vic: I don't know who the younger comics are, to be honest. Jack Whitehall's funny. I think his dad's very funny, too. But yes, of course I make them run errands. That's what they're there for.

Bob: I let them smoke the cigarettes for me.

Vic: We just turn up, accept it and gracefully retire in our rollers.

Matt Berry's also in the show. Do you find yourself cracking up at everything he says because of his mad voice?

Bob: Yes, he really cracks me up.

Vic: And me. We like giving the best lines to the others and not us.

Do you secretly base any of your insane characters on people you know?

Vic: No, I think they'd mostly be in prison if they were like that.

Were you not a bit cheesed off with the Beeb for axing Shooting Stars?

Bob: I don't think that would be true. I think everyone said the last series was the best. We finished on a high.

What's the funniest word in the English language?

Vic: Nuts.

Bob: Not Nuts!

Will you ever reach a point where you think you're too old to get laughs from stuffing things down your trousers?

Vic: I think it will be for everyone else to tell us. We'll continue to stuff our trousers until we're told not to.

Bob: I agree. I still really enjoy doing what we do.

Have you ever laughed so hard that a bit of wee came out?

Vic: Bob has on TV.

Bob: Twice. I can still remember one of them when it was the Big Night Out and you could see a stain...

Vic: He was playing a bus driver and we had to film it from behind.

Bob: I once soiled myself and I didn't have another costume.

Vic: I have, too, but not on telly. I remember watching Monty Python when I was 13 on the sofa. I fell off the sofa and wet myself.

Bob: It's good you fell off the sofa first.

Vic: I'd love to do it now. I'd like to see something that made my bladder burst.

Will you do any more Fosters Funnies if they offer you a ton of money?

Bob: Yes, they were quite good! They said "take a camera out for 20 minutes and do whatever you want". It was fun.

Cool! Thanks for the chat. Finally then, can you tell us one thing about the other person that we would never know?

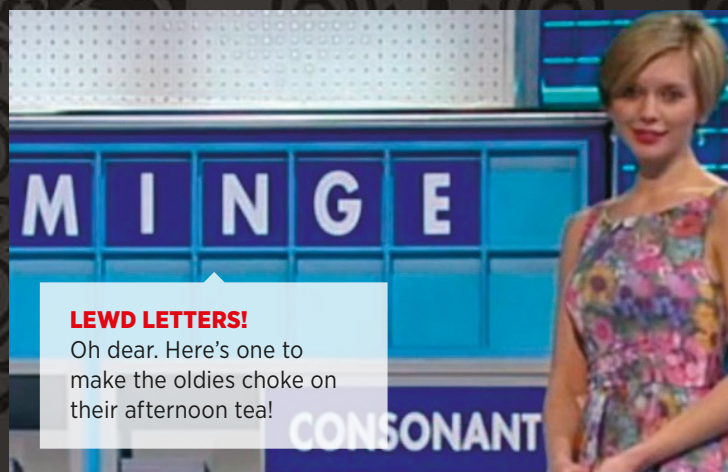

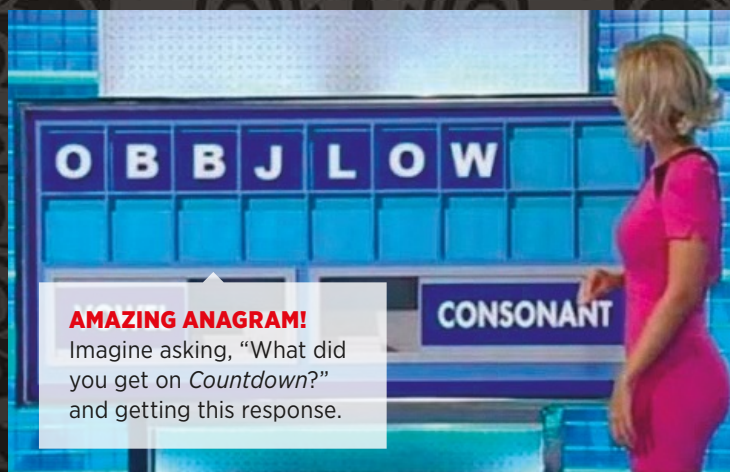

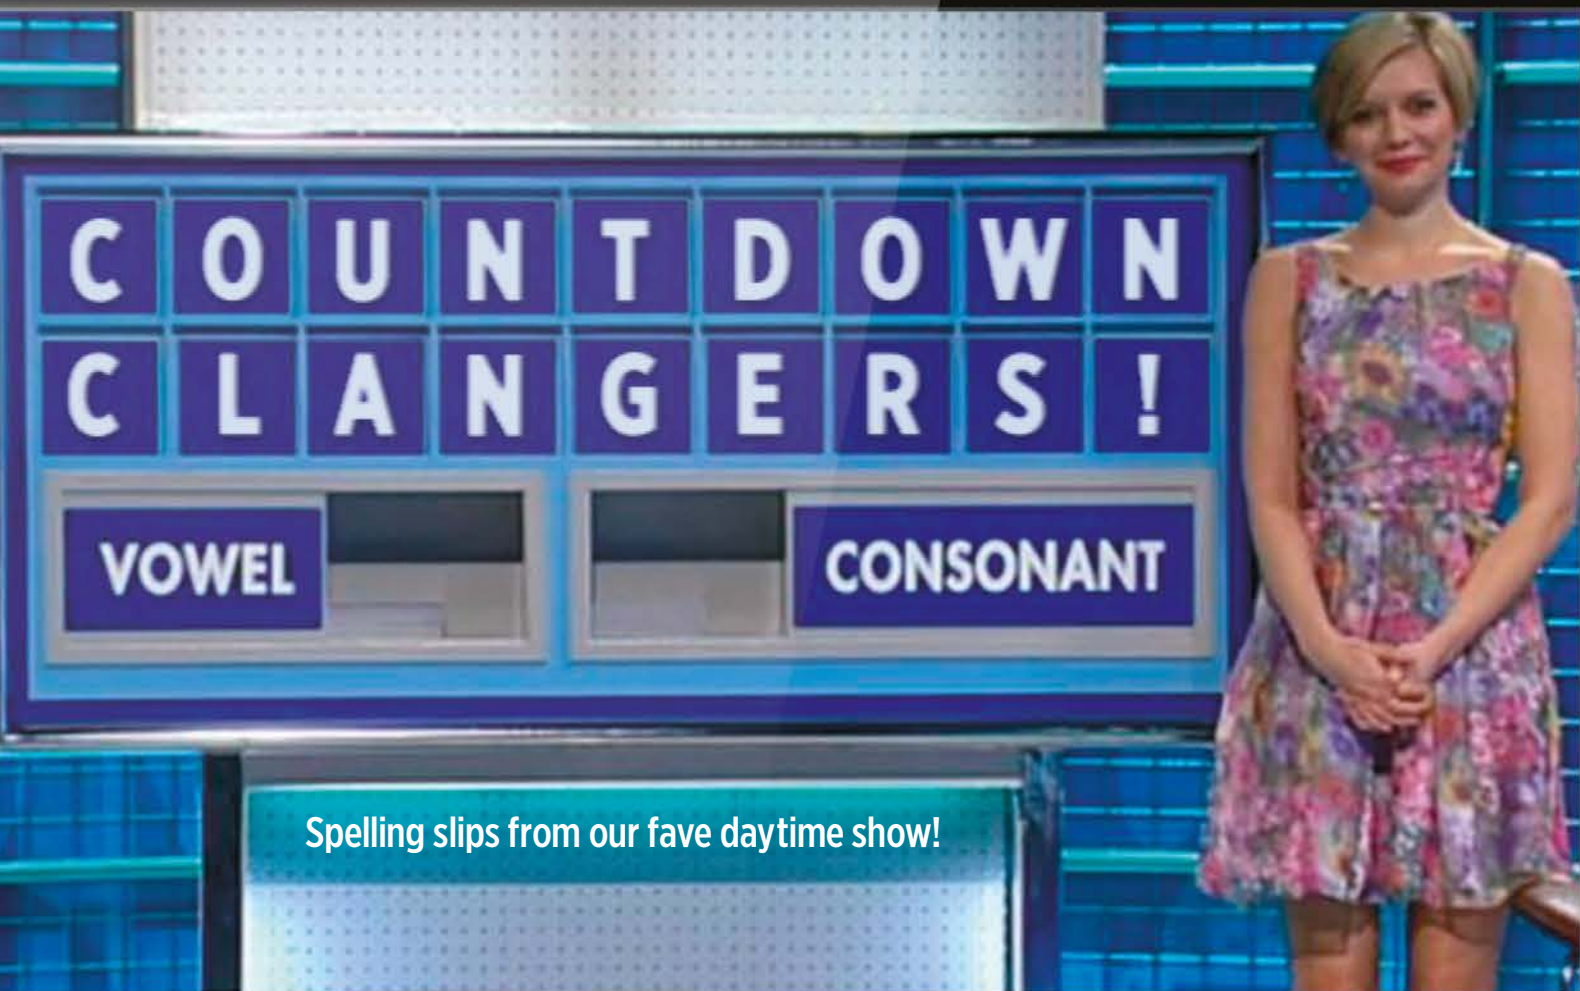

Vic: For lunch, Bob quite often has just a Jamaican ginger cake.

Bob: I don't know what the fk it is but Vic's lunch always stinks. Vic always has a pickled egg on top of some old meat.

Vic: I bring a packed lunch. It's always last night's dinner with a pickled egg on top. ✕

The Mafia's most feared!

With a Cosa Nostra
death sentence hanging over him, one top prosecutor could pay the ultimate price for taking on the Mafia.
Nuts investigates...

WHEN ONE of the most feared men in the world declares he wants you dead, you might want to keep a low profile, but that's easier for some than others. Despite being behind bars, real-life Godfather Toto "The Beast" Riina continues to run a criminal empire that involves murder, extortion and corruption at the highest levels. He ended last year by issuing an astonishing death threat to Palermo's high-profile prosecutor Nino Di Matteo, and now emphasis is firmly on protecting those who seek to destroy the Mafia.

It's mid-December 2013, and Riina is watching TV coverage of a trial concerning an alleged pact between Mafia bosses and high-ranking Italian politicians. Prosecutor Di Matteo makes a pledge to continue his fight to bring the Sicilian Mafia crashing down – along with crooked politicians and public servants. An enraged Riina utters the chilling words: "Di Matteo shall die." Then, according to prison guards present at the time, he adds, "He'll meet the same end as a tuna." It's a bizarre turn of phrase believed to be a reference to the "Mattanza", a traditional tuna hunt off the coast of Sicily where the giant fish are driven into nets and slaughtered with spikes and sharp knives.

Riina then makes reference to the murder of one of Italy's most respected anti-Mafia campaigners, magistrate Giovanni Falcone, who was killed by a car bomb in 1992 with his wife and four bodyguards. "He wanted to go and see the tuna slaughter," Riina said. "Instead, I brought the slaughter to him." Clearly, this is a man who won't let the Mafia go down without a fight.

Gangland hits

Riina is believed to be responsible for around 40 gangland hits in total, and has been implicated in countless others. Before his arrest on multiple charges in 1993, he was considered the Capo dei Capi ("Boss of Bosses") in the Cosa Nostra. Born and raised in Corleone – the town immortalised in Mario Puzo's novel The Godfather and the films it inspired – Riina joined the Mafia in the late '50s and rose steadily through the ranks, waging war on other families, to become top boss in 1974. Then came the infamous battle against the state in the early '90s, launched in retaliation for a government crackdown on Mafia activity

Riina speaks to his lawyer from behind bars

Prosecutor Nino Di Matteo flanked by bodyguards last month which left scores dead. Riina brutally dealt with anyone who threatened the sanctity of "the family" – the Falcone massacre being just the tip of the iceberg. Months later, he oversaw the assassination of Judge Paolo Borsellino and his personal bodyguards.

Riina's preferred method of execution was by car bomb, detonated remotely by mobile phone. Speaking of the imminent threat to Prosecutor Di Matteo, a trusted source comments, "The explosives are ready for him, too." This could explain why his bodyguards have recently been issued with mobile phone signal blocking equipment, as well as the usual body armour and automatic weapons.

Eager to clean up Italy's blood-stained image, the authorities are now playing hard ball. But, for a while in the early '90s, it seemed no one was untouchable. The state was so intimidated by the Cosa Nostra's power that they gave up trying to put them behind bars and struck a secret deal in a bid to stop the slaughter. Known as the "trattativa", this illegal deal now sees Italy's ex-interior minister and the minister of defence from Berlusconi's former regime, standing trial alongside various Mafiosi. The trial has captured the public imagination as it promises to reveal how the Mafia were allowed to function above the law for so long, and who was responsible.

Assassination plans

So brazen is Riina that he's been openly discussing plans to assassinate Di Matteo outside the courtroom where the trial's taking place, allegedly telling fellow mobster Alberto Lorusso, "Everything's set up. We'll do it in spectacular fashion."

This claim prompted fears of a repeat of a 1994 incident when only a faulty detonator switch prevented a bomb going off at a football match at Rome's Stadio Olimpico. Public prosecutor Sergio Lari said a similar incident could, "Turn Italy's clock back 20 years."

Since the threats, security around Di Matteo has increased. Everywhere he goes, he's flanked by machine gun-wielding protection officers, and undercover agents aren't far behind.

"Sometimes I ask myself if it's right to go on," he told newspaper La Repubblica. "But it is worth it, and it is right."

So why is he so determined to bring the Cosa Nostra down? Well, it's personal. The first time he wore a magistrate's robe, he was standing next to Giovanni Falcone's coffin in 1992. "I knew what I was getting into," he says. "They've already killed many colleagues."

Due to the trial, and a series of police raids and arrests, the influence of the Cosa Nostra is fading. However, while the authorities have been concentrating on them, two of Italy's other main crime syndicates, the Camorra and the 'Ndrangheta, have risen to the top. Another war could just be starting. X

Sicily's Bloody Legacy!

● The Sicilian Mafia War of the '80s ("La Mattanza" – The Slaughter) has claimed a reported 1,000 victims.

● From March '92 to Sept '93, 26 police officers, judges and officials were killed by the Mafia.

● The current Capo dei Capi ("Boss of bosses") in Sicily is Matteo Messina Denaro, aka "Diabolik".

● Since 2012, there've been around 20 meetings between relatives of jailed Mafia leaders, with the aim of restoring "La Cupola" – the regular gathering of Sicilian crime families.

Jasmine Waltz!

Celeb BB's hottest housemate in her first magazine shoot!

BEST CELEB BB EVER!

This series got off to a great start when Jasmine flashed her boobs on the first night in the house!

PHOTO: WENN

JASMINE WALTZ

A full-page photograph of Jasmine Waltz. She is wearing a black lace-trimmed bra and matching high-cut panties with a lace-up detail. She is also wearing black sheer stockings and black high-heeled shoes. She is leaning over a white table, looking back over her shoulder at the camera. Her long dark hair is styled in waves. In the background, there is a large woven spherical light fixture and some greenery.

“I’m a girl who knows her lingerie and poses!”

OVER THE years, many beautiful models have made the happy journey from Celebrity Big Brother house to the Nuts magazine studio, but this year, we were particularly thrilled when the wonderful Miss Waltz signed up for this fantastically sexy shoot.

The awesome American brought a whole lot of cheer to this year’s big celeb showdown and kept us glued solidly to our screens for 13 fantastic days, and there are many reasons why. From getting absolutely hammered and flashing her boobs on the first night, to getting a bit frisky with lovely Luisa Zissman in the hot tub – not to mention Lee Ryan in the bathroom – Jasmine’s saucy shenanigans mean that we won’t be forgetting this hot housemate in a hurry, nor will we be able to shake the image of her being dry-humped by a rather randy Dappy.

But Celebrity Big Brother’s loss is very much our gain so, without further ado, we bring you an incredible world-exclusive shoot. She’s funny, she’s smart, she’s extremely sexy... gentlemen, we give you Jasmine Waltz!

Hello Jasmine! You look amazing today – how have you enjoyed your first Nuts shoot?

Hello! I’ve done stuff for lingerie companies but never for a cool magazine. I liked doing a bit of the directing too, and getting involved – I’m a woman who knows her lingerie and her poses. I love the whole sets – rather than just bra and underwear – holds-ups and stockings. It looks amazing.

So now the dust has settled on Celebrity Big Brother, are you missing the house?

I miss 90 per cent of the people in there. I think we’ll be hanging out when they get released – man, I make it sound like a prison! ►

A woman with long dark hair, wearing a black backless bikini top and high heels, stands by a large window, looking up and touching the glass. The scene is brightly lit with natural light from the window.

JASMINE WALTZ

Go on then, Jasmine – who won't you miss?

Lionel [Blair] can suck it. I tried to be polite with him after the show, and he just went for me anyway. He's a miserable old pr*ck. He's upset that I talked over him because he's older than me, but all he did was sing stupid show tunes all day long. Who wants to hear that? He was really obnoxious.

It's fair to say you didn't get on particularly well with the older chaps, then?

It's a close call between Jim [Davidson] and Lionel. They're very bossy, set in their ways. Every time we laughed or stayed up late, they'd just snarl and get uptight. You grumpy pr*cks, get it together!

Ha! Well, you certainly brought cheer to the house. We very much enjoyed your boozy first night in the house.

Ha-ha! I only just watched it back for the first time last night. I thought it was the funniest thing I'd ever seen – it was fking hilarious. I had tears running down my face. I don't really get embarrassed about things like that – I had a smile on my face while I was being put to bed, so that's all good.

Dappy's willy has been a big talking point. Did he scare any of you with it in the house?

That's all the house talked about! I can't confirm that he has a big penis. I tried to look at it on the internet since I left the house and I couldn't find an unedited version – it was all blurred out! We were so fixated with it in the house we came up with a song. It's just shouting "Dappy's d*ck" to the tune of Jingle Bells!

What was Dappy like to live with in the house?

There are so many ranges of Dappy – he can be really quiet and thoughtful and actually pretty sweet. Then there's really drunk Dappy and that's my favourite one. My ► favourite Dappy's an intoxicated Dappy! He was so uptight and concerned about making any mistakes because of the bad press he's had, but when he let loose he was just awesome.

What do you think of Lee now you've left the house. Are you put off now you've seen him cry on TV?

I think he's really sweet. It was really nice that he was so vulnerable and showed his feelings. A lot of guys try to hide it and the fact that he opened up like that was awesome.

Do you have any plans to see Lee again when he leaves the house?

I hope so. Who knows, right? But I hope so.

We have to ask, what really went on in the bathroom with you and Lee?

Nothing – we were just kissing! Everyone's so excited over what happened and basically nothing did apart from some kissing. I mean, the way it's edited makes it look like more happened, but it didn't.

Fair enough. What's your opinion of fellow housemate Casey Batchelor now?

I liked her at first, but now I see that she manipulated a lot of people in the house into feeling sorry for her. Having watched it back, I've seen Lee tell Casey five or six times that he didn't like her in a serious way and that he was into me. But she still wouldn't back off. I think she's a little pathetic.

Watching Lee and her in the house, were you worried that she might try to hook up with him?

I always felt like she's definitely not giving up on him, let's put it that way. Lee said enough times in the house that he wasn't interested and her behaviour at the time made her look very needy and pathetic. She acted like this wounded little puppy. ►

“I hope to see Lee again when he leaves the house!”

You were snapped out and about with Duncan James from Blue recently. What was that about?

Lee told me to call his friends the moment I got out so I had someone in the UK to hang out with. Duncan hit me up on Twitter so we went out. He's a cool guy. He said lots of nice things about Lee. Lee wanted me to hang around with Duncan so I could be looked after.

Can you name any Blue songs?

No. None at all. I'd never even heard of Blue before.

What are you going to do next?

Nothing at the moment – I have a serious back problem! I'm really into yoga and hurt myself doing a pose. I need a big steroid injection to put it right. I think lying on the floor in the Big Brother house has made it even worse. As soon as I left there were five doctors ready to take me away and give me treatment.

Do you have a massive crush on Luisa like the rest of us?

I think she's extremely sexy. I do like her as a person and to be around. It's exciting being in her company – I like that anything might happen there.

Here's a thought: would you like to do a sexy shoot with Luisa sometime?

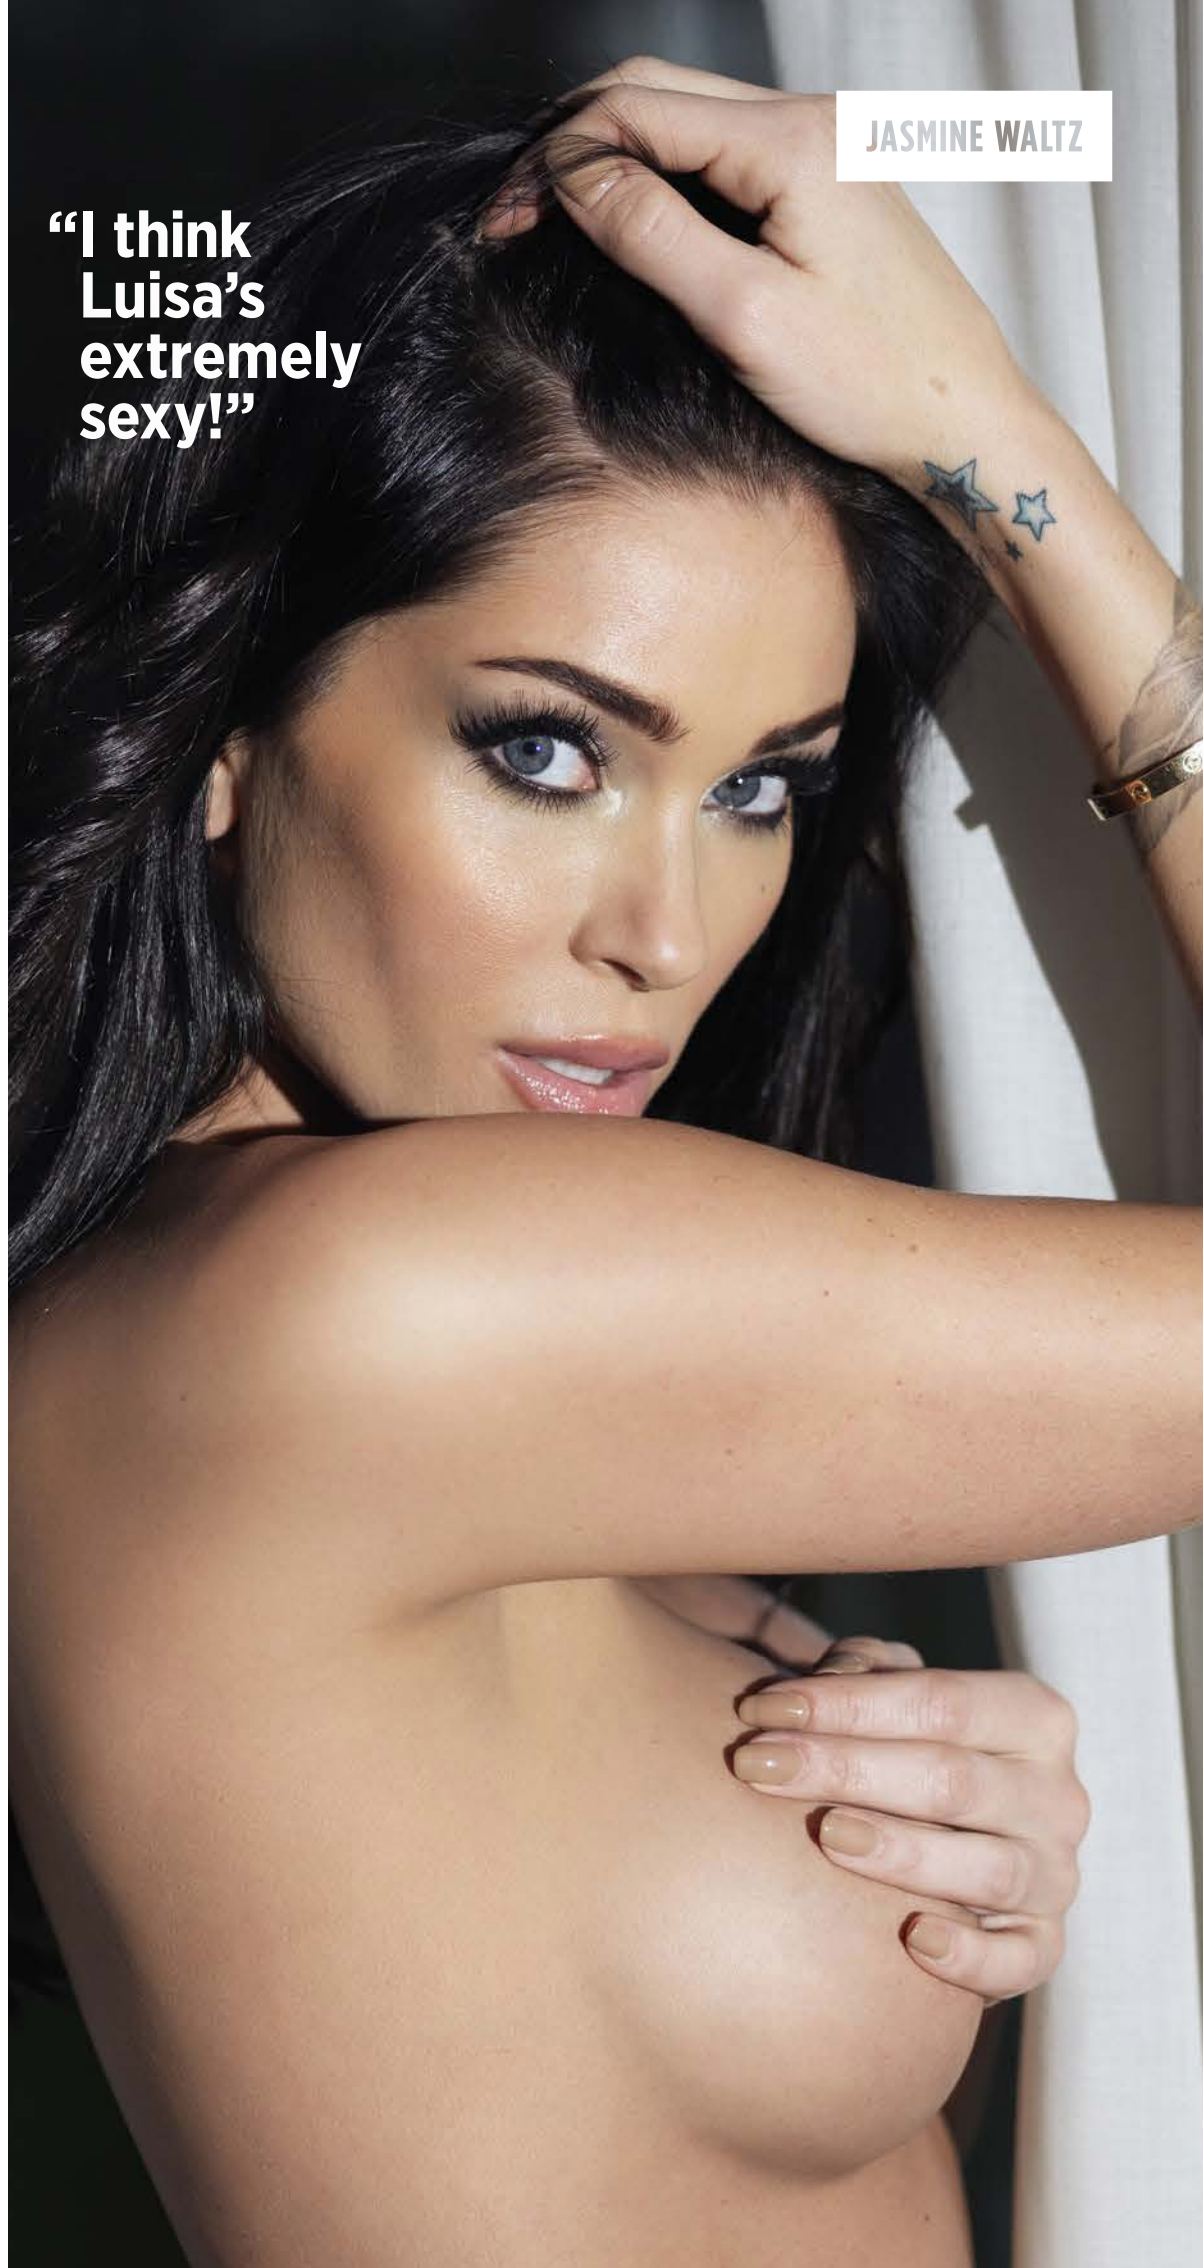

Yes, absolutely! That would be so much fun. If there was alcohol there it could get very entertaining.

Amazing! Well, thanks for a great chat, Jasmine. Finally then, which of your fellow housemates would you like to invite around to yours for a lovely fish supper?

I'd invite Lee, Luisa, Dappy, Sam [Faiers] and Ollie [Locke]. Jim can come if he isn't grumpy. I'd bar Lionel – he's not sitting at my table – nor Casey!

● Celebrity Big Brother: The Final is on Wednesday 29 January, Channel 5/HD, 9pm.

THIS WEEK!

Scavengers

They never missed an episode of The Great British Bake-Off

Aliens! Explosions! Intergalactic skulduggery ahoy!

SCAVENGERS

27 January • 15

We love movies here at Nuts, which is why we came up with the idea of Film Club. Every couple of weeks, we have a cheap night in together, by grabbing a few beers, turning on the office popcorn maker (don't all offices have these?) and sticking in a DVD we've been sent.

This week we got our hands on sci-fi flick Scavengers. The story involves a crew of space salvage experts led by Wake (Roark Critchlow of V fame), who scour the universe looking for abandoned wrecks. During one such search, they find a highly powerful piece of alien tech that threatens the balance of the entire universe.

Thing is, a crew of space mercenaries led by Captain Jekel (Sean Patrick Flanery from Young Indiana Jones) are desperate to get hold of this piece of tech, too. Jekel, you see, knows it forms one part of an even more powerful device called the Chaos Generator, and is determined to reunite all three pieces.

Cue a spaceship chase across the universe, shoot outs and oodles of special effects. If you enjoy bonkers B movies, you'll love this film, that really pushes the boundaries of what you can do on a limited budget. The scene where one crew member explodes certainly got the girls in our gang shrieking!

"Yep, it looks like a gun to me"

"And will someone wash these walls!"

Verdict...

Here's what we think...

Nuts man Tom says:

"I'm a total sci-fi geek, Scavengers reminded me of top '80s shows like Space 1999 and Battlestar Galactica."

Nuts man Rom says:

"I'm a massive Star Trek fan, so this was right up my street. It was a bit cheesy, but in a good way! I loved the special effects!"

Nuts girl Lizzie says:

"The nerdy boys in the office really got into it. I thought it was fun - especially the bit where a crewmember explodes. Eeuw!"

10 RUDE QUESTIONS!

And a real girl to answer them!

Kirstine

23 Dumfries

1 Where's the strangest place you've had sex?

"The strangest place – but also the best – is probably on a beach. The sand, the sea, the sex... it feels so free and out in the open. I have to confess that sand up the bum is a killer, though!"

2 What's your trademark move in the bedroom?

"Booty clapping, which is wiggling my bum so that it makes a clapping noise when I'm on top. Guys absolutely love it and it's always good to use your booty and make it clap!"

3 What's your favourite position?

"Doggy style. I love it because it shows off my booty and I can give it a bit of a twerk!"

4 Is it better to give or receive?

"It's got to be both as I have to keep my man happy but he's also got to keep me happy. I get turned on giving, though – I love seeing how much I can turn a guy on."

5 What one thing would you really like to try but haven't yet?

"I say you should try everything at least once!"

6 What really turns you on in the bedroom?

"Having my neck kissed really drives me wild. As does a guy who knows what he's doing and is in control. There's just something about a confident guy that's a real turn-on. But if you really want to get me going crazy, then a bit of neck kissing and messing around always works wonders."

7 Ever got it on with another girl?

"Well, me and my model friend Emma Green are going to Tenerife in March together to shoot over there, so you never know what could happen with my big booty and her big boobies. Loads of twerking and motorboating will be done! We'll keep you informed!"

8 What's the rudest thing you've ever done?

"I was with my ex years ago, we were out and very horny and we basically didn't make it home. I was on top of him and suddenly I felt someone touch my shoulder and saying, 'Excuse me...' I turned around and it was two policemen. I've never been so embarrassed in all my life. There I was, giving him my best moves and all the time two policemen were stood there!"

9 What's your favourite sexy outfit?

"My black lacy underwear with suspenders and stockings. Also, heels are a must. I love getting dressed up, it really gets me in the mood."

10 Have you ever made a sex tape?

"No, never. I've seen enough leaked sex tapes to know better!"

CONFESSION OF THE WEEK!

'My first time in the snow'

THE COLD weather reminds me of last year when my man and I visited an old country house, which looked beautiful in the snow. We were messing about in the grounds, throwing snowballs, when he proposed we do it! It was freezing but we soon stripped off. I was bending over a log, bare bum in the air, when a maintenance truck whizzed past! The driver flashed his lights and beeped his horn and we both burst out laughing, gave a little wave and ran back to the car. I think we'll stick to the warm and stay indoors if it snows this year!

Alys Brentwood

'A warm reception'

I'M A receptionist at a busy hotel in London and last week I ended up having amazing sex with a guest. I'd just checked in him and his friends, who were part of big stag group. He kept giving me these killer looks and I was getting hot under my tight suit. He was so sexy and

I could tell he was undressing me with his eyes. After lots of flirting, I cheekily asked if he'd like to see the suite where a famous star often stays. He jumped at it and we grinned, knowing what would happen next. I've never done anything like it before, and could've lost my job had I been caught, but lust took over! The bed is huge in there and there are these long loungers and gorgeous chairs – we ended up rocking away on everything! It was so passionate and he certainly knew which buttons to push. It's fair to say that I had a lunch break to remember!

Natalie West London

'Neighbours woke me up'

EARLIER THIS week I woke up one morning to the sounds of my neighbours in the flat next door having wild sex. I could hear the man grunting and groaning, then lots of panting from the woman and asking for more and for him to go harder. It really turned me on, and I felt more than a little naughty for listening so intently. My hands moved down between my legs, and within a minute I was coming, just as they were finishing up. I won't be able to look them in the eye next time we exchange pleasantries in the hallway!

Rach via email

'My sexy spa sessions'

I'VE BEEN seeing a young guy I met at the gym. He's cheeky and adventurous. We would train with each other, getting hot and sweaty, then go for a steam together in the spa and tease each other with our hands in the Jacuzzi when the bubbles were on. One day we couldn't take it any more and he pulled my bikini bottoms to the side and slid into me. It felt amazing, but more so that there were people around the place, coming in and out of changing rooms – someone could have been watching! It didn't last long because the bubbles were only on for five minutes but it was amazing! He held my hips while he thrust into me and came. The sexiest thing I've ever done and one we repeated more than just the once!

Six Nations preview!

Phil Vickery weighs up the teams' strengths and weaknesses!

IT'S SIX Nations time again and everyone will be gunning for champions Wales. But as Phil Vickery explains, it won't be easy...

- Sat 1 Feb: Wales vs Italy, 2.30pm, Fra vs Eng, 5pm.
Sun 2 Feb: Ire vs Sco, 3pm.
All live on BBC One/HD.

ENGLAND LEGEND!

Prop Phil won 73 England caps and was an ever-present in the 2003 World Cup winning team!

IRELAND

"Could it be a fairytale end for Brian O'Driscoll? Ireland were disappointing in the autumn, then heartbroken when they lost to the All Blacks with the last kick of the game. I was devastated for them. They're this year's real dark horses - there's so much potential in the national game, with so many Irish teams left in the European competitions. I spoke to Paul O'Connell recently and he was full of it, all fire and desire - what a tremendous asset he will be if he can stay fit. New coach Josef Schmidt, new era. They have all the tools but it's whether they can be consistent and play at a level they haven't quite reached yet."

KEY MAN: "Paul O'Connell. He's honesty, he's integrity, he's Mr Ireland. If they can replicate some of his spirit, they're in with a shot."

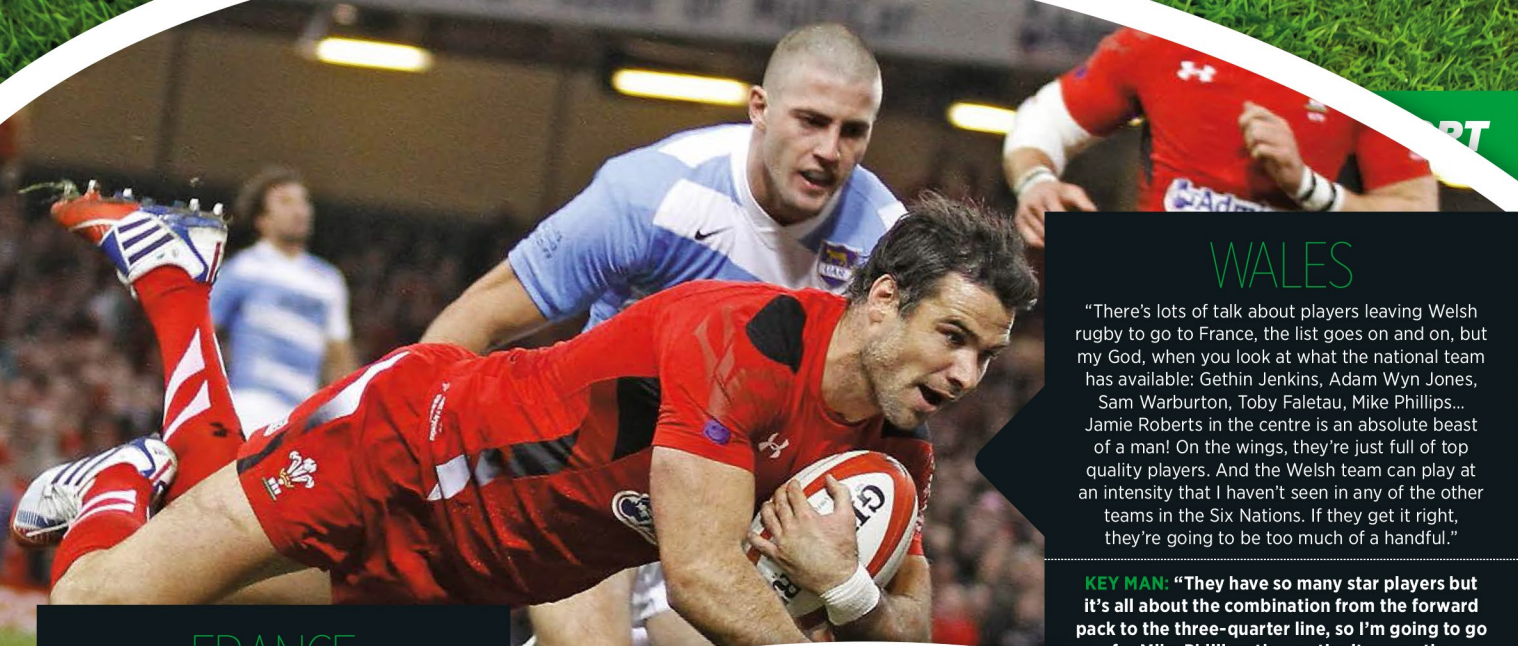

SCOTLAND

"Where do you start? They have a newish coach in Scott Johnson, but they're a little bit in No Man's Land in terms of what Scottish rugby is standing for at the moment. They showed signs in the autumn that they can play rugby, and their forward pack competes without having any real standout player. Realistically, their campaign is about getting respectability for Scotland. I know that sounds nasty but it's an opportunity for them to show people what they're about without having any real pressure of expectation. But I'm afraid I still think it's between them and Italy for last place."

KEY MAN: "Kelly Brown, for me. He typifies everything in the Scottish psyche, that tenacity, that fight. He'll be the one to create problems."

WALES

"There's lots of talk about players leaving Welsh rugby to go to France, the list goes on and on, but my God, when you look at what the national team has available: Gethin Jenkins, Adam Wyn Jones, Sam Warburton, Toby Faletau, Mike Phillips... Jamie Roberts in the centre is an absolute beast of a man! On the wings, they're just full of top quality players. And the Welsh team can play at an intensity that I haven't seen in any of the other teams in the Six Nations. If they get it right, they're going to be too much of a handful."

KEY MAN: "They have so many star players but it's all about the combination from the forward pack to the three-quarter line, so I'm going to go for Mike Phillips, the continuity man, the orchestrator."

FRANCE

"I say it every year, you never know what you'll get with the French and this year, that's true more than most years. The French league is so powerful, with so many foreign players going there and raising the quality of the domestic game. But the French... they love a bit of turmoil, they love a crisis, but if they can inherit the passion of their coach Philippe Saint-André, then they have oodles of ability. When it comes to France, the simple question is: can they get it right this year? I'm afraid to say I fear they can't. They're powerful throughout but I just can't see them getting their act together."

KEY MAN: "Their captain, Pascal Papé. If he can galvanise them, there's no saying what they can do. Doing it week in week out? That's a big ask."

ENGLAND

"It's the easiest thing in the world to say that the England pack is their strength, as it has been for years. It's not outstanding to the point of being fearsome but it's good and solid, which they proved in last year's autumn internationals. But there are injuries in the backs, they haven't fulfilled their potential and people are still asking what this England team can do. It's an opportunity for them to show what they're capable of, with the World Cup around the corner, and coach Stuart Lancaster will be urging them to do that."

KEY MAN: "Owen Farrell at 10 – we know he's solid and mentally tough, but he has to set this England team up, drive them on and pose some threat. We know he's safe but we need more than just safe."

ITALY

"People can be a bit harsh on Italy. They've progressed a lot in recent years and got a couple of good wins last year, but they just haven't got the player base of other nations to draw from. When you look at their forward pack, you have to say they lack discipline, but they're also abrasive and aggressive. They have good scrummagers, they're strong in driving play, but outside of that, you just think: who's realistically going to do anything? And that will still be a question in this year's tournament. I fear for them this year."

KEY MAN: "Their No.8 and captain Sergio Parisse has been their standout man for years – what might he have done in other teams? He has work rate, skill and ability. He's the complete package."

Vickery's Verdict

"I think Wales are going to win it. They just have too much quality everywhere – ball winners, powerful runners. They just have danger everywhere, really. And Italy, much as I hate to say it, for the wooden spoon."

The Man City goalfest!

Mad facts and figures about Pellegrini's plunderers!

➔ LAST WEEK, Manchester City became the fastest club to break through the 100 goals in all competitions barrier, against Cardiff. Their crazy goalscoring success this season has been staggering, but just how staggering are we talking here? Allow Nuts to illustrate the only way we know – with mad facts!

68

Before facing Watford in the FA Cup, City fans who only go to home games saw their team score 68 times.

Again, prior to facing Watford, City had scored four or more goals in a game 12 times this season, putting four past Newcastle, Man United, Viktoria Plzen, Fulham and Cardiff, five past Wigan, CSKA Moscow and Blackburn, six past Spurs, Arsenal and West Ham and seven past the hapless Norwich.

When City passed 100 goals in all competitions, they did so after 34 games, which is eight games quicker than the previous holders of the record, Chelsea.

Following City's Capital One Cup semi-final second-leg against West Ham, four players had hit double-figure goal tallies for the season, with Alvaro Negredo leading the way on 23, then Sergio Agüero with 22, Edin Džeko with 16 and Yaya Touré with 14.

At the time of writing, City's own goals (received) is four, more than the league goals scored by Jack Wilshere, Santi Cazorla, Lukas Podolski, Steven Fletcher, Philippe Coutinho, Michu, Nicolas Anelka, Papiss Cissé...

In matches involving the "Big Six", Man United have managed seven goals in eight games, Arsenal have bagged eight in seven, Chelsea ten in seven, Liverpool eight in six, and Spurs five in seven. City have scored 19 in five vs Big Six opponents.

City need a goal from one of their right-backs to complete the full set of goals from every position (except keeper). Micah Richards, Pablo Zabaleta – over to you!

City have already scored 16 more goals than they did in the whole of last season, under Roberto Mancini. They passed his total when they went 5-0 up against West Ham on 8 January.

Only two teams all season have prevented City from scoring in a game, the somewhat unlikely pairing of Stoke (0-0) and Sunderland, who won at the Stadium Of Light by the odd goal.

167

Having reached the final of the Capital One Cup, and with at least one FA Cup tie and two legs of the Champions League still to come, City will score at least 167 goals in the season if they keep scoring at their current rate. However, if they make it to the Champions League final and FA Cup final (without replays), this will rise to 194 goals.

Twelve different City players have scored in open play. Of the 12, none of them have failed to score multiple goals – James Milner, Slovan Jovetic and Vincent Kompany are bringing up the rear with two apiece.

Negredo: 'We all want to be top scorer!'

In-form Alvaro says City want the quadruple!

Hi Alvaro! You seem to be enjoying your first season in English football.

I must confess, even though I'd heard a lot about the Premier League, you have to experience it personally to understand what it's all about. The expectation, the fight, the need to be physical is all incredible. I've enjoyed it though.

And you can't stop scoring!

Well, we're a very attacking side who create many chances, and my job's to put the ball in the back of the net. Of course, the team winning is the most important thing, but I'm enjoying my goals.

Is there any rivalry between yourself, Sergio Aguero and Edin Dzeko?

We all want to finish top scorer, it's only natural. But it was fantastic that, when Sergio was out injured, myself and Edin put together such a strong partnership. Our partnership has been special. We seem to have a good communication and know instinctively what the other one does. Now that Sergio's back, the team's in very good shape.

Is this the best season of your career?

It could end up that way. The opportunity to play with the very best footballers drives you to become better and better. I feel strong, I feel confident and the most important thing is that I'm really enjoying myself, as you may have noticed.

What's makes the Premier League unique?

Teams go for the throat for the full 90 minutes, no matter how big the club is. Mistakes are almost always punished too. Even if you're a top side, you can lose any game. The defenders are aggressive too, and there's always a fight. It suits me!

You're favourites to win the Capital One Cup. Can your goals fire Man City to the Premier League title too?

I certainly hope so! We have a very, very strong squad with attacking options in many positions. I just hope I can keep weighing in with goals and assists. We want to win every competition we're in – Premier League included!

● Man City vs Chelsea is on Sky Sports 1/HD on 29 January at 8pm.

"OK, let's nail this three-legged race!"

KAMMY!

He's the voice of the fans – and he's only in Nuts!

Mata will be the window's big deal!

Man United will be the biggest spenders

➔ AT THE time of writing, it has been a quiet transfer window, but Man United's signing of Juan Mata may well be the catalyst for some high-level activity as the week progresses.

There's always one big-money marquee signing in any window, but unless something spectacular happens, this time around it's Mata. United are short on quality. Juan Mata is top quality – he just wasn't Jose Mourinho's cup of tea because he didn't do enough defensively. But with a player like Mata, you focus on the attacking qualities rather than the defensive shortcomings. The United fans will be placated a bit because it's clear that Moyes' last signing, Marouane Fellaini, doesn't really fit into the United style of play. Mata will.

You could argue that £37million is a lot for a player who's hardly played this season, but if he can do what he did at Chelsea last season, it'll turn out to be good business.

"See ya!"

The worst shoot-out ever!

UNITED'S PERFORMANCE against Sunderland culminated in the worst penalty shoot-out I've ever seen. It shows what a factor pressure can be – a lot of the younger players won't have faced that kind of pressure before. But the penalty debacle actually draws attention away from a more important truth – Sunderland were the better team over the two legs!

"Bury him"

Signs are good for Sherwood!

TIM SHERWOOD has made the best start – five wins and a draw – in the Premier League of any manager. If he was called Gianluca Sherwoni and had arrived here from a Serie A club, I suspect everybody would be gathering around to hail him as a genius. Yep, at the moment, all in the garden is rosy for Tim, but I'd still remind everyone that only time will tell us if he's the best thing since sliced bread!

"Walk on water?
Yes, actually!"

San Francisco 49-aargh!

Gridiron star suffers horrendous wonky leg injury!

➔ HERE AT Nuts, we're quick to mock our American cousins for their version of football, being as it is a dumbed-down type of rugby performed in RoboCop suits. But every now and then, the rough and tumble of the sport throws up some pretty horrific injuries – and here's NaVarro Bowman of the San Francisco 49ers suffering one! This horrendous sideways leg-bend happened during a game with the Seattle Seahawks and, to add insult to clearly apparent injury, he then had the ball pulled from his grasp while he lay on the ground and it was ruled he'd lost possession.

Amazingly, his dislocated knee somehow slipped back in place and he "only" suffered a ruptured anterior cruciate and medial collateral ligament that rules him out for the year. That's OK then.

Ruptured ACL: what it feels like

Nuts man Colin ruptured his ACL after the editor fouled him in a five-aside match [Oi! – the Ed]. He explains how bad it is... "I felt my knee joint twisting into an unusual position. I heard a loud snap, but didn't feel much pain. It's not as painful as a broken bone in that sense – that hurts immediately. It's more a sickening nausea due to shock. The pain comes after, once it's being reconstructed. They took a tendon from my hamstring, drilled a hole in my thigh and shin, threaded the new ligament through and bolted it into place. Now that hurt!"

MEGAN 26

"I've been online dating for about a year now but haven't had nearly as much fun on it as I have since joining Hook-Ups. Everyone on it seems really fun and laid back, which is exactly what I was looking for. It's fun whenever and wherever I want it!"

MATT 26

"It's been a really full-on week since I joined Hook-Ups! I've already met three girls, who I'll definitely be seeing again. A couple live close to me, one around the corner. We met up and had a night of drinks and laughs, then a bit of fun. I'm so glad I joined the site!"

"It only took a couple of days for me to start meeting girls from the site. With one of them, we'd chatted and made video calls on the site before deciding to meet at a bar. After spending the night together, we're onto night number two. Hook-Ups is awesome!"
